

Feasible Medical Interventions

A number of research projects are underway to utilise feasible mobile computing and existing infrastructure, within several sub-Saharan countries, in order to provide assistance and education in the battle against predominant diseases such as malaria, diarrhea, and maternal mortality and morbidity.